

BOA appoints David Reid as Exploration Manager to advance Neds Creek

- David Reid has more than 35 years' exploration experience across WA and internationally
- David brings strong expertise across exploration delivery and has held senior operational roles in underground and open-cut mining
- He also has past experience on BOA's Neds Creek Project in WA as former Exploration Manager at Ventnor Resources
- BOA has nine drill-ready targets for drilling at Neds Creek in Q2 CY2026.

BOA Resources Limited (ASX:BOA) is pleased to announce the appointment of David Reid as Exploration Manager.

The appointment follows BOA's completion of its buy-in to the Neds Creek Copper Project in Western Australia and marks an important step as the Company moves into an active exploration phase.

David is a mining and exploration geologist with more than 35 years' experience across Western Australia and internationally. He has led end-to-end exploration and resource development programs, including the Neds Creek Project as Exploration Manager at Ventnor Resources Ltd. David brings strong expertise across exploration delivery and has held senior operational roles in underground and open-cut mining from feasibility through commissioning and production.

BOA considers the Neds Creek project to be highly prospective for copper mineralisation and has nine drill-ready targets for drilling in Q2 2026.

As part of its technical review, BOA is undertaking a machine learning targeting exercise, integrating historical geological, geochemical and geophysical datasets to identify new potential mineralised zones and prioritise existing drill targets. The outcomes of this work will inform the design of BOA's final drilling programs.

BOA Executive Chair Cath Norman commented, "BOA wholeheartedly welcomes David to the team. His appointment significantly strengthens BOA's technical capability at an important time for the Company. His direct experience leading exploration at Neds Creek provides us with a headstart as we embark on drilling with an aim to build an economic copper resource."

As Exploration Manager, David will be responsible for the design and delivery of BOA's exploration program with an immediate focus on advancing the Neds Creek copper project. He will also act as BOA's Competent Person for the purposes of resource reporting, in accordance with the JORC Code, and as statutory Exploration Manager, under WA WHS (Mines) Regulations.

David Reid commented, "I am pleased to be joining BOA following its acquisition of the Neds Creek project. Having previously led exploration programs in the area, I believe the project presents strong exploration potential and I look forward to advancing it in a disciplined and systematic manner."
