About Terragen

Terragen specialises in the development of biological products for agricultural applications, using naturally occurring live microbial strains to improve plant and animal productivity. Our proprietary research has led to the creation of innovative products that enhance farm productivity while supporting environmental sustainability.

Currently, Terragen markets Terragen Probiotic® for Ruminants (TPR) and its plant biostimulant Great Land Plus® (GLP) in Australia and New Zealand. Terragen continues to progress its commercialisation strategy, with increasing sales of TPR and expanding trials and distribution discussions, although no binding distribution agreements are currently in place.
