Ophir High Conviction Fund (ASX:OPH) – Investor Update

Dear Investor,

On 15th April 2026, we will be providing a video update on our Funds, including the Ophir High Conviction (ASX:OPH, “the Fund”).

1. Market insights & Fund performance*

Australian markets were down in March. The ASX 200 ended the month down -6.9%, while the ASX Small Ordinaries fell -10.9%.

Australian large cap growth and value fell, with the MSCI Australia Growth Index down -6.4%, and the MSCI Australia Value Index down -5.8%.

Smalls cap growth was a factor headwind during the month of March with the value sector of Energy leading share markets globally. Software and technology company share prices were under pressure as the market remained concerned over the disruption of the sector from AI.

For the month ending 31st March 2026, the Net Asset Value (NAV) of the Fund fell -12.2% (net of fees), underperforming the benchmark, which fell -10.6%. The OPH ASX price fell -7.0% over the month.

*We note past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance.

2. Stocks in Focus

A top contributor over the month

One of the largest contributors to performance for the month was Superloop (ASX: SLC), which provides internet connectivity and services for Australian homes and businesses. It gained +10.2% over the month. Superloop rose on news of reaching their milestone of 250,000 connections through Origin.

A top detractor over the month

One of the largest detractors from performance for the month was Develop Global (ASX: DVP). The battery metals mining, mining services, and copper miner company fell -27.4% over the month in line with the broad sell off in the materials sector, and not for any stock specific news. The fall follows strong gains over the previous three months. We maintain our long-term conviction in the company and its expected earnings trajectory. At the time of writing in early April, DVP’s premier copper asset just released a positive update, seeing its share price recoup much of the March falls.

3. OPH trading at a discount

We note the OPH share price traded at a discount to its Net Tangible Asset per share (NTA) for March 2026.

We like the opportunity to buy low throughout the cycle, whether that is stocks in our own Funds, or OPH itself with our own personal investments.

4. OPH buy-back facility

We commenced utilising the buy-back facility for OPH during March 2020 as markets sold off during the early stages of COVID-19. The buyback facility was rolled for another 12 months on the 9th January 2026, and we will continue to utilise this where we see good value on offer in the OPH unit price. We have a process and rules in place for when we use the facility in the market to buy back OPH units. We remain committed to this facility and process and will continue to use this mechanism where we believe it is in the best interests of all unitholders and accretive to performance of the Fund over the long term.

We remain as hard working as ever to find and allocate to those small and mid-cap businesses listed in Australia that we believe can significantly grow earnings and provide attractive risk-adjusted returns over the medium to long term.

Your sincerely,

Andrew Mitchell & Steven Ng
