Commercialisation

These discussions are exploratory in nature and have not resulted in any binding agreements.

Live Q&A Session

In light of the updates provided above and the volume of questions management has received from shareholders, the Company has elected to host a live Q&A session. Following a short introduction by the Chairman, and in order to maximise the time available for questions, management will open the call to live questions from the outset rather than repeat the above information in a presentation format.

The Company is committed to ensuring that all shareholder questions are answered. Any questions not addressed during the live session will be answered in full following the event. A written update summarising the key questions and responses will be published following the Q&A and made available to all shareholders, including those unable to join the live session.
