

Chobe Project Renamed the Viper Project & New Company Website Launched

Maverick Minerals Australia Limited (ASX: M96) (Maverick or the Company) is pleased to advise that its West Arunta Project, formerly known as the Chobe Project, has been formally renamed the Viper Project. Concurrently, the Company has launched its new corporate website at www.maverickmineralsaus.com.au.

Highlights:

- West Arunta Project formally renamed the Viper Project, reflecting the Company's rebrand to Maverick Minerals Australia
- Large, contiguous landholding of ~1,470km² in the West Arunta region – one of Australia's most exciting emerging mineral provinces
- Prospective for niobium-rich carbonatites, REE mineralisation and IOCG systems in proximity to WA1 Resources and Encounter Resources discoveries
- New corporate website launched at www.maverickmineralsaus.com.au

Viper Project – West Arunta, Western Australia

The Viper Project is Maverick Minerals' flagship exploration asset, located in the West Arunta region of Western Australia, approximately 490km south of Halls Creek. The Project comprises a large, contiguous landholding of approximately 1,470km² across eight granted tenements and seven tenement applications, representing one of the more significant land positions in this rapidly emerging exploration province.

The Project is considered highly prospective for niobium-rich carbonatites, rare earth element (REE) mineralisation and iron oxide copper-gold (IOCG) systems, supported by regional geological interpretation and early-stage geophysical datasets. The West Arunta has attracted strong industry attention following nearby discoveries of niobium and REE mineralisation by WA1 Resources Ltd and Encounter Resources Ltd.

The Project name change reflects the Company's rebrand to Maverick Minerals Australia and marks a new chapter in advancing this highly prospective critical minerals asset toward drill-ready status.

New Corporate Website

The Company has launched its new corporate website at www.maverickmineralsaus.com.au. The website provides comprehensive information on the Company's projects, board and management, corporate governance and investor centre, including ASX announcements, corporate presentations and financial reports.

This announcement has been authorised for release by the Board of Maverick Minerals Australia Limited.
