Dusk Group response to ACCC proceedings

Dusk Group Limited (ASX: DSK) advises that the Australian Competition and Consumer Commission (ACCC) commenced proceedings late yesterday in the Federal Court of Australia against Dusk Australasia Pty Ltd, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Dusk Group Limited.

The proceedings relate to alleged contraventions concerning certain products sold between calendar 2023 and 2024, containing button batteries.

The proceedings relate to allegations that 25 product lines were supplied or offered for supply before safety standard testing had been completed. The pleadings note that when the products were tested, they passed the relevant tests. It is also alleged that 4 product lines did not display warning information required by the information standards and were voluntarily recalled in December 2024.

Based on the information currently available to us, we have not identified reports of harm to customers associated with these products. We continue to monitor customer feedback and will respond appropriately to any concerns raised.

The proceedings also allege that Dusk Australasia Pty Ltd breached the terms of an undertaking given to the ACCC in 2023.

Dusk takes product safety seriously and has cooperated fully with the ACCC throughout its investigation. As the matter is now before the Federal Court, it would not be appropriate to comment further at this time. Dusk will keep the market informed in accordance with its continuous disclosure obligations.

This announcement has been authorised for release by the Board of Directors of Dusk Group Limited.
