3. Our Ethical Standards

3.1. Conflict of interest

A conflict of interest occurs if your loyalties are divided, for example if you or your family or friends have a personal or commercial interest which may interfere, or be perceived to interfere, with the performance of your duties and responsibilities to 3P Learning, making it challenging to perform your role objectively and effectively.

The existence of a conflict of interest is not uncommon. What matters is how we manage the conflict.

To safeguard the confidence of our key stakeholders in 3P Learning's integrity, it is paramount that you do not allow personal interests or the interests of family or friends conflict with your role and duties performed in the interests of 3P Learning.

Conflicts and conduct to avoid

You must avoid participating in decisions and activities which may conflict, or be perceived to conflict, with your duties and responsibilities to 3P Learning.

You must not enter into any arrangement or participate in any activity that would conflict with the best interests of 3P Learning or would be likely to negatively affect 3P Learning's reputation.

You must not use 3P Learning property (including intellectual property), information, your position or opportunities which may arise from these to improperly gain benefit for yourself or for another party.

You must not be involved in any other company or business or organisation as director, agent, employee or consultant (whether paid or unpaid) if there is a possibility that your personal interests could conflict, or be perceived to conflict, with those of 3P Learning – unless you have first:

1. disclosed the interest to your Approving Manager, and
2. obtained prior written approval from your Approving Manager, the company secretary or the Board (if you are a director or officer of 3P Learning companies).

An 'Approving Manager' means a member of staff in your division that reports to the Chief (or equivalent senior leader) who leads your division.

What if there is a perceived, or actual, conflict of interest

If you are involved in a conflict or possible conflict, or become aware of a conflict, you must tell your manager or the company secretary or the Board (if you are a director) as soon as possible.

3P Learning will review your disclosure to clarify how your conflict must be avoided or managed.

3.2. Anti-bribery and gifts

A number of countries, including many of those where 3P Learning conducts its business and operations, have strict laws against bribery and corruption.

The anti-bribery laws of some countries including Australia, the United States and United Kingdom can apply to the conduct and how we do business in other countries (i.e. have wide-reaching and extra-territorial effect). This means we must comply with and uphold all laws against bribery, corruption and related conduct applying to 3P Learning in all the jurisdictions where we (including our partners on our behalf) operate.

Accordingly, 3P Learning has a strict policy not to offer secret commissions, bribes or unlawful payments, gifts or benefits to further its business interests. Facilitation payments may breach anti-bribery laws and are prohibited under our policies. For more detailed information on your obligations, please refer to the Anti-bribery & Corruption Policy, which is available on the 3P Learning website (www.3plearning.com/investors/governance).

Naturally, you must not accept any money or opportunity or other benefit which could be interpreted as an inducement, secret commission or bribe. Care must be exercised in accepting hospitality, entertainment or gifts over and above that required for the normal conduct of business or which may compromise your impartiality. You must enter declarations for gifts, benefits and hospitality (GB&H) into the company Register, except those GB&H that exceed the threshold must not be accepted unless you have first obtained prior written approval from the CFO. Details of the expectations, thresholds and register for GB&H that are offered or received are set out in the Anti-bribery & Corruption Policy.

Material breaches of the Anti-Bribery and Corruption Policy will be reported to the Board or a committee of the Board.

3.3. Dealings with politicians and government officials

All dealings with politicians and government officials which relate to 3P Learning and its business activities must be conducted at arm's length and with the utmost professionalism. We expect our employees, officers and other persons acting on behalf of 3P Learning to avoid any perception of attempts to gain advantage or to improperly influence the outcome of an official decision.

You must not make any donation or other financial contribution to any political party or candidate for an election (other than in a purely personal capacity).

You must not make any donation or provide sponsorship to any other organisation or person without seeking and obtaining prior approval in accordance with 3P Learning's Anti-bribery & Corruption Policy.

3.4. Confidentiality

In the course of 3P Learning's business, you will have access to business or personal information about the affairs of 3P Learning, its customers, employees, suppliers, contractors and our business partners.

Confidential Information may include business strategies, marketing and sales plans, competitive analysis, financial plans and forecasts, customer or employee information, supplier information and pricing. When information is given or received, each of the parties expect the confidential nature of the information they have given in good faith to be kept confidential and used only the purpose for which it was given.

You must keep confidential information acquired while you are with 3P Learning, or acting on behalf of 3P Learning, confidential, even after you leave or cease your engagement or employment with us.

You must not access, request or make improper use of or transfer or disclose confidential information to anyone else except as required by your position or as authorised or legally required.

If confidential information inadvertently comes into your possession it should be returned immediately.

If you are required by any third party or regulatory authority to provide confidential information which has not been otherwise authorised, you must review the request with your manager and your executive.

3.5. Privacy Compliance

3P Learning applies measures to safeguard the privacy of individuals. 3P Learning collects, processes and administers personal information regarding its customers, suppliers, employees, contractors and others in accordance with the 3P Learning Privacy Policy and contractual obligations.

You must consider and apply our company's privacy and IT policies which are designed to support and ensure personal information is safeguarded and processed for the proper and legitimate purposes as set out in our Privacy Policy and under data protection laws.

You are encouraged to refer to, and to consider initiatives, that support our protection of individual personal information. You must complete all training and internal assurance procedures diligently.

For further information on your obligations, please see the 3P Learning Privacy Policy, which is available on the 3P Learning website.

3P Learning is committed to ensuring the highest quality of service is provided to its customers at all times. We make decisions regarding suppliers and contractors on merit and a commercial basis.

These policies include: Workplace Bullying Policy, Discrimination and Harassment Policy and Grievance Resolution Policy, as updated from time to time and available on the intranet.

3.8. Health and safety

3P Learning is committed to ensuring the health and safety of its employees, consultants, contractors and visitors to its workplace and any other persons who we work with, as required by law.

It is important that we work together to create a safe and healthy workplace. If you know of or suspect any unsafe situations or conditions, please alert your manager or supervisor immediately. You can also report an incident, observation or 'near miss' using the forms available on the 3P Learning intranet. A safe workplace requires everyone's commitment and cooperation.

You must protect 3P Learning's assets and property (including intellectual property) and ensure that 3P Learning's assets and property are used only for the benefit of our business and operations. You are encouraged to report any suspected or actual theft or fraud to your manager, the company secretary, to any other contact nominated in applicable 3P Learning policies, including the Whistleblower Policy.

You must not use 3P Learning's assets or property for personal purposes except in accordance with 3P Learning's policies or approved arrangement.

You must return 3P Learning assets and property immediately upon request by the 3P Learning.

All expenses must be documented in accordance with our procedures, and reported in a timely manner and in accordance with applicable policies, which are available on the 3P Learning intranet.

3.10. Compliance with laws and regulations

3P Learning is committed to complying with the laws and regulations of the countries in which we operate and which apply to our business and operations.

You must comply with all laws and regulations relating to 3P Learning, including document retention requirements. You must also comply with the technical and ethical requirements of any relevant regulatory or professional body. You must not breach, or omit to do something in breach of, any law or regulation or requirement.

You are encouraged to report all actual or potential breaches that you become aware of. The reports can be made to the company secretary, your manager or to any other contact nominated in applicable 3P Learning policies, including under the Whistleblower Policy.

Where local laws, regulations, or customs differ from this code, you must apply whichever requirement sets the higher standard of behaviour.

Ensuring that we respect and abide with law is paramount. We expect that employees, directors and other persons acting on behalf of 3P Learning will decline to participate in conduct which may not comply with law or this Code of Conduct. Ignorance of the law or having a good intention does not excuse your obligation to comply.

If you are uncertain about the interpretation of any applicable law or regulation or requirement, contact your manager or a relevant advisor.

We expect all employees, directors and persons acting on behalf of 3P Learning to participate in relevant compliance training programs offered by 3P Learning.

3.12. Insider trading

Insider trading laws prohibit a person in possession of material non-public information relating to a company from dealing in that company's securities. Insider trading is a serious offence under the Australian Corporations Act and other applicable legislation.

If you become aware of material non-public information about 3P Learning or any other listed company, you must not trade in that company's securities or disclose that information to any other person other than as required by your role. Our Trading Policy is publicly available on the 3P Learning website. It provides guidance so that you do not deliberately or inadvertently breach the insider trading laws or our policy. You are encouraged to report any actual or suspected unethical behaviour including breaches of this Code of Conduct or 3P Learning's policies and directives to your manager or any other contact nominated by 3P Learning. Matters raised will be investigated in accordance with applicable policies and as required by law.
