ABOUT DALY RESOURCES LIMITED

Daly Resources is an Australian exploration company focused on advancing its foundational Huckitta Project in the Northern Territory.

The Huckitta Project is the cornerstone of Daly Resources' growth strategy, covering approximately 3,600 km² in a highly prospective mineralised corridor. The project hosts a large-scale, high-grade fluorite system, complemented by significant copper exploration upside.

Huckitta is strategically positioned in an emerging fluorite region with the potential to become one of Australia's important fluorite developments. Recent exploration has confirmed exceptional fluorite grades and identified multiple untested targets across the project area.

In parallel, Huckitta's basin-scale copper potential provides Daly Resources with an additional pathway for discovery, development and long-term value creation. As the Company's flagship asset, Huckitta underpins Daly Resources' strategy to systematically explore, define and advance critical mineral opportunities in the Northern Territory.
