Tissue Repair to resume direct distribution of TR Pro+ in Australia and New Zealand

Tissue Repair Limited (ASX: TRP) (“Tissue Repair” or the “Company”) advises that it has resumed direct distribution and management of TR Pro+® in the aesthetic channel in Australia and New Zealand, alongside its current distribution of TR Pro+® in the medical channel.

Advanced Cosmeceuticals Pty Ltd (“Advanced Cosmeceuticals”) was appointed as Tissue Repair’s distributor for TR Pro+® in the Australian and New Zealand aesthetic markets in September 2025.

The Company is taking steps to transition customer relationships, ordering and account management to Tissue Repair.

Tissue Repair will assume direct responsibility for customer relationships, sales, ordering, and account management, as well as customer engagement related to business development opportunities, promotions, and education.

Tissue Repair is focused on ensuring continuity of supply and customer support during the transition and does not currently anticipate any interruption to customers’ ability to order TR Pro+®.

TR Pro+® is Tissue Repair’s proprietary hydrogel designed for use following aesthetic procedures and in the management of acute wounds. The product is listed on the Australian Register of Therapeutic Goods (ARTG).

Tissue Repair CEO, Tony Charara, said:

“Advanced Cosmeceuticals has been Tissue Repair’s distribution partner in the Australian and New Zealand aesthetic market since September 2025.

“Tissue Repair has determined that returning to a direct distribution model is the appropriate approach for the next stage of development of the TR Pro+® business.

“Our immediate priority is to ensure continuity for existing customers and a smooth transition of customer relationships and ordering arrangements. We look forward to engaging directly with our customers and supporting the continued development of the TR Pro+® business.”

Tissue Repair will provide further updates regarding the transition and the development of the TR Pro+® business as appropriate.
