
Update – Mighty Kingdom

FortifAI Limited (ASX:FTI) ("FortifAI" or the "Company") advises that its subsidiary Mighty Kingdom Games Pty Ltd (Mighty Kingdom), an independent game developer, is investigating a contained cyber incident.

This incident is entirely limited to a part of the system used by Mighty Kingdom as part of game development. There has been no impact to any of the wider Company systems or business units which operate from completely separate environments.

As soon as this incident was detected, immediate containment steps were taken by Mighty Kingdom. External cyber security and forensic specialists have been engaged to support Mighty Kingdom's investigation into this incident.

The information impacted appears to be limited to gaming code and mini games developed and licenced by Mighty Kingdom. It is not believed that any notifiable personal information was stored on the impacted system or accessed as part of this incident.

The Company has become aware of online claims relating to Mighty Kingdom. These claims are being investigated by cyber security experts and sophisticated monitoring is in place to detect and track any further developments.

The Company takes the security and protection of its systems and data very seriously across all business units and is assisting Mighty Kingdom with its response to ensure all appropriate action is taken and that this matter is treated with priority.

Mighty Kingdom has notified the Australian Cyber Security Centre of this incident and will continue to provide updates to customers, relevant government agencies and regulators as necessary and appropriate.

Authorised for release by the Board of Directors of FortifAI Limited.
