ASX AnnouncementWiseway and Borderless360 deepen mutual investment partnership after strong first year

Wiseway Group Limited (ASX: WWG) and Borderless360 will deepen their mutual investment partnership following a first year of revenue growth and expanded services across the combined network. The next phase includes joint development of a standalone digital freight forwarding product.

Partnership progress

Since the partnership began as announced on 22 October 2025, the two companies have expanded their service offering, grown business together and broadened access to larger premium clients. Wiseway's infrastructure has supported Borderless360's launch of Fortio, its branded direct injection carrier service, while Wiseway's China operations have enabled the addition of fulfilment and freight forwarding services. Together, these developments give customers access to a broader range of international logistics services.

Further investment in Borderless360

As the next step in the partnership, Wiseway will invest a further US$600,000 in Borderless360, comprising US$200,000 in cash and 1,801,412 new ordinary shares in Wiseway Group Limited at a deemed issue price of A$0.32 per share. The investment will increase Wiseway's strategic minority stake in Borderless360, reinforcing its commitment to expanding the companies' commercial collaboration and jointly developing a digital freight forwarding platform. Wiseway's existing call option will also be amended to provide for a further increase in its shareholding, subject to agreed revenue milestones and the continuation of the commercial collaboration.

Completion is expected by end of October 2026. The cash component will be funded from existing funds and the shares will be issued by utilising the Company's existing capacity under ASX Listing Rule 7.1. There are no material conditions that need to be satisfied before the contract becomes legally binding.

Deeper integration and digital freight forwarding

For Wiseway, the partnership brings Borderless360's technology and complementary services together with its freight forwarding expertise and physical infrastructure, supporting broader customer reach and more integrated logistics services. Together, the companies offer a deeper vertical stack combining technology, freight forwarding and customs clearance, fulfilment, direct injection and physical infrastructure. Customers of both companies benefit from a more coordinated supply chain across the international logistics journey.

The new product will combine Wiseway's two decades of freight forwarding experience and physical infrastructure across Australia, New Zealand, the United States and China with Borderless360's technology and development expertise. It will connect the full workflow from collection at the manufacturer through air or sea freight, customs clearance and final delivery.

Shippers will be able to quote, book and track international freight through a single digital platform. As a standalone offering, it will serve the wider freight market and complement both companies' existing services. It is expected to launch in early 2027.

Ken Tong, CEO of Wiseway Group, said:

“Wiseway has more than 20 years of freight experience and substantial infrastructure across Australia and New Zealand. Our US business is also growing significantly. The first year has given us confidence to invest further and combine our infrastructure with Borderless360’s technology in a dedicated digital freight forwarding product.”

Michael Teasdale, CEO of Borderless360, said:

“Our clients are Western brand-led e-commerce retailers scaling globally. Our vertically integrated stack brings freight forwarding, fulfilment and direct injection together with the technology and infrastructure behind them. Further investment deepens that integration for our clients. We’re also excited to develop a standalone digital freight forwarding product with Wiseway.”
