MACH7 SIGNS NEW CUSTOMER

- Temple Health signs 5-year subscription licence for eUnity and Vendor Neutral Archive (VNA)
- Year 1 ARR[1] of A$0.5M[2] expected following go-live

Mach7 Technologies Limited ("Mach7" or the "Company") (ASX: M7T), a healthcare software company providing a broad set of enterprise imaging solutions for modern, AI-enabled healthcare environments, today announces the signing of a new customer contract with Temple Health.

Mach7 will provide its eUnity Viewer and VNA over a 5-year term. The contract is effective 30 October 2026 and expected to initially contribute A$0.5M to ARR with FPU[3] expected within 6-12 months.

Temple Health is a Philadelphia-based academic health system with 990 licensed beds, more than 1,700 physicians and more than 350 researchers. Its network includes the main campus of Temple University Hospital in North Philadelphia, the Jeanes, Episcopal and Northeastern campuses, Temple Health-Chestnut Hill Hospital, and Fox Chase Cancer Centre, an NCI-designated comprehensive cancer centre. Its recognized programs include organ transplantation, lung and thoracic medicine, cardiovascular medicine, neurosciences, orthopaedics and sports medicine, gastroenterology, oncology and urology.

Mach7 CEO and Managing Director Teri Thomas said: "We are delighted to partner with Temple Health to help its clinicians access the imaging information they need across their hospitals and specialty centres. For patients whose care involves multiple teams, connected imaging can support more informed decisions and better coordinated care. This partnership continues to strengthen Mach7's presence in academic health systems and integrated delivery networks, reflecting our focus on growing the business by solving practical challenges for clinicians and supporting better care for the people they serve."

Released on authority of the Board by Teri Thomas, Managing Director and Chief Executive Officer.
