RESPONSE TO RECENT PUBLIC ALLEGATIONS AND SPECULATION

Ainsworth Game Technology Limited ("AGT" or the "Company") has been made aware of certain HotCopper posts dated 14 November 2026 relating to the Company (the HotCopper Posts) which include the publication of a "probity report" prepared by Margaret Lawson a Queensland based public relations consultant for HWL Ebsworth on behalf of Mr Kjerulf Ainsworth, a shareholder of the Company (the KDHA Report).

The HotCopper Posts and the KDHA Report make a number of unproven allegations and assertions in relation to the Company, its current and former directors and employees, and its majority shareholder. The KDHA Report includes the biographical details of the author noting her formal qualifications are in public relations, crisis communications, journalism, and aviation safety but do not include any gaming law or licensed regulator auditor qualifications or experience. In addition, the Company has sought clarification from HWL Ebsworth in respect of the independence of the author of the KDHA Report including any existing or prior relations or dealings with Mr Kjerulf Ainsworth.

A copy of the KDHA Report has also been sent directly to the AGT Board by Mr Ainsworth.The AGT Board has previously met in relation to the KDHA Report and determined that the Regulatory and Compliance Committee (the RCC) will oversee and investigate the allegations contained in the KDHA Report. These investigations by the RCC, which will also include the HotCopper Posts, are well underway and external advisers have been appointed to assist in the process. The Company, its current Executives and current directors are seeking legal advice about the matters raised in the KDHA Report and HotCopper Posts.

Whilst the investigations are on foot it is inappropriate for the Company to comment further other than to say the Board is cognisant of its continuous disclosure obligations and will provide further updates to the market as required in accordance with its continuous disclosure obligations.

This announcement was authorised for release by the Board of Directors of AGT.
