Anson Resources Limited (ASX: ASN) ("Anson Resources" or the "Company") is pleased to announce that it has promoted Chris Moller from Group Financial Controller to Chief Financial Officer (CFO), effective 18 November 2026. Chris will be based in Anson's head office in Brisbane. He is an experienced financial professional who worked as an auditor at Ernst & Young for over 8 years. Chris has worked extensively across a range of industries, including US-listed mining and multi-entity businesses, and has experience with PCAOB audits, with a particular focus on process improvement and controls testing.

Since joining Anson in 2025, Chris has led the Group's accounting, updated financial processes and improved cash flow forecasting. He has provided accurate, detailed and improved financial reports, budget forecasts and variance analysis to Anson's Executives and the Company's Board. These reports provide commercial insights at the Board level that allow it to make appropriate business decisions, and support a financial structure that will facilitate the development of the Company's projects in Australia and the USA.

Bruce Richardson, Executive Chairman and CEO of Anson, said: "Chris has made an outstanding contribution since joining Anson in 2025. His work leading our accounting, updating our financial processes and improving our reporting has given the Board and management a clearer and more reliable view of the Company's financial position. His experience across US-listed mining, PCAOB audits and multiple industries is well suited to Anson as we advance our projects in Utah. I congratulate Chris on his promotion and look forward to working with him in his new role."

This announcement has been authorized for release by the Board of Anson Resources Limited.
